

Move On When Ready (MOWR)

Earn high school and college credits at the same time.

Move On When Ready

Did you know that FCS students can earn college credit while in high school through the Move On When Ready (MOWR) dual enrollment program? Eligible students must meet the college's admission criteria for dual enrollment students in order to participate. Students must also meet with school counselors to complete high school and college application requirements for summer, fall or spring participation.

Who is eligible to participate?

High school students in grades 9-12 can participate as long as they meet the criteria for both high school and college. Students attend college classes for which they receive college and high school credits. Students take classes on the college campus - or through adjunct professors at their high school.

Important Dates

For summer or fall dual enrollment students must meet with their high school counselor and complete high school and college application requirements by March 31.

Students interested in spring dual enrollment must meet with their high school counselor and apply to the college by November 30.
